Patrolman Clay Keith
when he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant in 1948.

Keith was born on July 4, 1917 in Asheville, North Carolina. He was one of Florida's earliest troopers joining the FHP in 1941, a member of the third recruit class.

He served 30 years in uniform, rising to the rank of major and becoming the state's first Director of Driver Licensing in 1963.

He left the FHP in 1978 to become the civilian head of driver licensing, and he remained in that post until he retired in 1987.

When he retired he became the official historian of the Florida Highway Patrol.

Clay Keith died on December 18, 2000.
